PRICE THREE CENTS.

Snow Removal Cost City $14,000

That Fact Was Brought Out at Meeting of Common Council Committee With Public Works Board to Discuss Snow Question—Desire to Erect $50,000 Apartment House—Other Matters Before Board.

Kingston's last blizzard will cost the taxpayers $14,000 in opening the streets to traffic. That fact was brought out Tuesday evening at a meeting of the board of public works held at the city hall which was attended by the committee appointed at the last meeting of the common council to take up the question of snow removal with the board.

The aldermanic committee, consisting of Aldermen Haines, Everett, Mann, Moore and O'Reilly met with the public works board to discuss the problem of snow removal. The committee desired to stress the point that in purchasing any snow removal equipment preference should be given to Kingston concerns who are furnishing other cities and towns with suitable equipment.

Aldermen Receive Complaints.
Alderman Everett opened the discussion of the snow removal problem and said that the committee had been appointed after an informal discussion of the question at the last meeting of the aldermen, and was due to the fact that the aldermen had received many complaints as to "why the street is not cared for." He said that one idea that had been suggested was the working of night shifts and another the purchase of a tractor of sufficient power to open the streets following a heavy storm. He said that the common council had no desire to criticize the work of the board but wanted to cooperate with it.

"Open Streets From Gutter."
Alderman Haines believed that the snow could be shoveled from the gutters and piled into the center of the streets instead of just opening a path through the center which left the gutters clogged with snow. He believed that plan could be worked successfully in at least 75 per cent of the streets.

Alderman Moore said that the general impression seemed to be that a tractor would work to more advantage in clearing the streets and Alderman Mann said that there was considerable time lost on the Broadway hill by trolley cars halted by passing traffic which were forced to use the car tracks. He believed it would prove a good idea to have trolleys drive at frequent intervals so that traffic could turn out to allow the trolley cars to pass and return.

Alderman O'Reilly was of the opinion that the city could not obtain a sufficient number of trucks to keep the snow loader busy and believed that a tractor should be purchased.

Van Keuren Explains Situation.
Superintendent W. Scott Van Keuren in reply to the remarks of the committee stated that there was no question but a tractor could be used to advantage, but that he was unable to get enough teams to work the turnout plan suggested by Alderman Mann. In regard to working shifts he said that was done, but that the snow removal equipment was not working their teams at night.

Superintendent Van Keuren did not believe the plan of plowing the snow from the gutters to the center of the street was practical as street intersections would be blocked and it would make twice the amount of work. It would also tend to cause accidents for which the city would be liable.

Tax Rate Is High Now.
Mayor Block said that all of the matters suggested by the committee had been previously gone over by the board and discussed. He said that it was only within the past two years that any attempt had been made to open the side streets, and that the public took it for granted that all streets should be opened. He was not sure that it was possible to do it at once with the present equipment. The board was considering the purchase of a tractor and plow, but owing to the present high tax rate had not considered it advisable to invest any money in snow removal equipment. Possibly another year means that he would be found to purchase the tractor.

It was stated by another visitor at the meeting that Kingston streets were in better shape than in Newburgh, Tarrytown, Albany and other places.

Police Ask for Light.
Chief of Police J. Allan Wood asked the board to install an arc light on Grand street, near No. 27, and a second place in the same district for men and women who are working at night. He said that several complaints had been received from the committee on this matter.

The A. & W. Auto Exchange petitioned for an arcade car tank with an incandescent light on the sidewalk at North Front street. It was referred to the committee on lighting.

Trolley Wants Gas Tank.
The trolley road asked permission to install a gas tank on the trolley car at the corner of Front street at the rear end. It was referred to the committee on lighting.

Tennessee Buys Crushers Here

Taking advantage of Federal Aid in the construction of roads, the State Highway Department of Tennessee is making rapid strides in constructing new highways and each year sees them adding to their equipment. The past week an order was placed by the department for six 1122 portable crushers with 30 Universal Road Machinery Company of this city.

This makes 29 crushers now owned by them and all are the product of the local company. Eight were bought last year and more will probably be bought later this season.

These crushers have a capacity of 150 tons per hour and are the size used by contractors as well as many townships.

The Universal company are proud of their machines are chosen in preference to any others and the report orders show that they are giving satisfaction.

Next week will see all the plants on their way to their various destinations.

Adjournment in Marecco Trial
Luco Marecco, who shot Anthony Pantuskie at Milton several days ago, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Martin at Milton Tuesday afternoon on a charge of murder, first degree. Bernard F. Coe appeared for Marecco and asked for an adjournment for two weeks. The hearing was set down for March 9.

Marecco who conducted a barber shop at Milton is charged with shooting Pantuskie with a revolver following a quarrel. Pantuskie was taken to Newburgh where he died at St. Luke's Hospital several days after an operation had been performed to save his life. The bullet passed through the liver and lodged in the back. Marecco was brought to the county jail and held pending the outcome of his victim's injuries. A charge of murder, first degree, was lodged against Marecco.

Marecco is a young man, who appears to be somewhat deaf. At the hearing Tuesday he appeared to be unable to understand what was being talked of in the court.

City Hospital's Phone Call Is 133

The New York Telephone Company has installed another telephone at the Benedictine Hospital which will be used exclusively for the work of the Kingston City Hospital. The telephone company has made the phone call 133, the same call in use at the Kingston City Hospital before it was closed by Saturday's fire.

Anyone desiring any telephone information regarding patients who were removed from the Kingston City Hospital to the Benedictine Hospital should ask the telephone operator to direct him "133" and he will be promptly connected with the temporary office of the Kingston City Hospital which has been established at the Benedictine Hospital.

Calling 133 will avoid delay, as all calls for the Kingston City Hospital will be taken care of by the temporary phone now installed.

Refuse To Re-open Case.

Washington, Feb. 24.—Immigration authorities today refused to re-open the Countess Cathcart case, and announced that so far as they were concerned the future status of the attractive divorcee will be left to the courts to determine.

A permit to erect a three-story modern apartment house in the First Ward. The exact location was not stated. It was said the building would cost $39,000. It was referred to the corporation counsel to see if it came within the zoning ordinance.

George L. Salzman's claim for work done in cleaning out a blocked sewer at his residence was rejected. Palgo to Meet Board.

H. C. Palgo, secretary of the trolley road, had written the board that he would be in Kingston late in the spring and would at that time take up with the board the question of repairing streets along the abandoned Colonial Division of the trolley road.

Secretary Lison was instructed to again communicate with Mr. Palgo, and ask him to appear before the board as near March 15 as possible so that plans for the summer work could be made and that there would be no delay.

Boarder Objected.
R. K. Brewster of Orchard street sent in a communication opposing the resolution offered by Alderman O'Reilly at the last council session requesting that the arc light at 27 Orchard street be placed further up the street. Mr. Brewster said that the lights were now evenly spaced in that street and that the street was lighted sufficiently. If a change was made a portion of the street would be in darkness while the upper portion of the street would be unnecessarily lighted. The communication was referred to the committee on lighting.

The board authorized the ordering for April delivery of 1,000 gallons of oil to be used on the streets to lay the dust.

Religious War Flares in Mexico

Over Enforcement of Law Ordering Expulsion of Alien Clergymen—Two Killed, Sixteen Wounded in Riot.

Mexico City, Feb. 24.—Contrary to assurances given foreign envoys, including the American ambassador, the Mexican Government intends to enforce with utmost vigor the law ordering the expulsion of alien clergymen.

Diplomatic circles placed this interpretation today upon the riot wherein Mexican police fired into a crowd killing two persons, and wounding sixteen who attempted to resist their efforts to arrest two Spanish priests for deportation.

The riot started in front of the Cathedral of the Sacred Family, the second largest church in Mexico City and less than six blocks from the American embassy.

According to the newspaper El Universal, the enforcement of the law threatens Mexico with a religious war. The paper reports that clergy throughout the republic are aroused to a high pitch of excitement and are ringing bells calling upon the faithful to resist to the last ditch.

"While up to the present the law was considered applicable only to priests, pressure in the Capitol is being applied to make it effective upon the clergy of Protestant, Jewish and other creeds," the paper said.

Mellon Doesn't Own Aluminum

Department of Justice Reports to Senate Judiciary Committee—Effort to Block Special Prosecution by Republicans.

Washington, Feb. 24.—The Aluminum Company of America, now under fire in the Senate as a monopoly, is not "owned" by Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon nor does he "control" it, the department of justice has reported to the Senate judiciary committee, it was learned today.

The department also announced that contrary to reports, Mellon did not furnish the original capital which organized the company, even though it is known publicly as a "Mellon concern."

In an effort to block a special prosecution of Aluminum Company of America, Republican leaders today sought to divert the Senate into other legislative channels.

The administration forces, anticipating a close vote upon the Robinson plan for employing special counsel to initiate criminal and trust proceedings against the Mellon concern, were anxious to avoid a decision. As a result they planned to call up the new tax reduction bill.

The Robinson plan, which would call upon President Coolidge to appoint the special prosecutors, meanwhile gained new support over the Walsh proposal for a senatorial investigation into the company's affairs. The insurgents with their balance of power, were committed to neither plan, demanding only that some action be taken against the company.

BASE RUTH WILL BE IN COURT AGAIN

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 24.—Babe Ruth is in trouble again. A suit was filed today in Middlesex county registry of probate against the baseball "king of swat."

His South Sudbury farm was attached for $500 by Lawrence Joyce, who claims a breach of contract.

By the terms of the suit, Ruth is bound to pay the debt to Joyce, or to sell the farm to satisfy the debt.

Bigelow Offers To Earn $1,000 For Hospital

Sage of Malden Will Lecture at Home to 200 Persons and Serve Tea in Order to Aid Hospital Building.

Malden-on-Hudson, Feb. 24, 1926. Editor, The Freeman: News has just reached me here that the Kingston City Hospital has received a heavy blow financially and is therefore calling for financial help.

This help will doubtless flow abundantly to an institution created by the genius and labor of Dr. George Chandler. It is moreover a hospital whose beneficent action reaches to every corner of our country—and sometimes even further. Its management has never favored any particular sect in religion or politics—the Roman Catholic, Jew, Methodist, Calvinist or Quaker enters its portals in moribund condition and emerges again without loss of theological fervor whatever may be their depletion under the knife of an appendix eradicating surgeon.

For my part I would gladly raise $1,000 thus:

Give here a course of ten lectures on the "Great Religions of the Far East." Sell one hundred tickets for the course, to men only, at $10.00 for the course. Each man to have the privilege of bringing a female member of the family.

Lectures to be given in my home at Malden-on-Hudson on ten successive Sundays at 3 p. m. Talking to last for one hour, after which a half hour of discussion, after which cups of tea will be offered, unless better beverage is brought by philanthropic visitors from beyond the dry border.

No money of any sort shall go to the lecturer. The whole of the sum of $1,000.00 shall be collected and handed to Dr. Chandler by some notable of Kingston.

I would suggest (without having had time to consult him) George Burgevin.

Also I would suggest that amongst the 100 subscribers should be a goodly number of open minded preachers of all complexions—Rabbis, Romanists, Christian Scientists, Theosophists, New Thought, Bahai, Buddhist or Dutch Reformed.

Nothing shall be uttered in these lectures that savors of propaganda or hagiological preference. They shall rather be a philosophical review of humanity resulting from personal contact in many lands with many worshippers of many Gods.

In case this hasty offer of mine meets with a favorable acceptance, no time shall be lost in fixing the date of the first lecture.

Your neighbor and friend,
POULTRY BIGELOW.

Smith Threatens To Stump State

Against Republican Proposal To Have Governor Elected For a Four-Year Term, Election Taking Place On Presidential Years.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 24.—Despite the fact that Governor Al. Smith has served notice on the Democratic leaders that he will not be a candidate for re-election, he declared today he would stump the state this fall against the Republican proposal to have the governor elected for a four-year term, the election to take place on presidential years.

Governor Smith long has advocated a four-year term for governor, but he insists the election should not take place when a president is being chosen.

"If the Republicans pass their proposal I will fight it to the death in the next state campaign," Governor Smith declared today.

"Do you mean you would stump the state against such a proposal?" the governor was asked.

"I certainly do," he replied.

The election of a governor for four years would have to be brought about through an amendment to the constitution, approved by the voters. The proposed amendment would have to be passed by two legislatures before it could be submitted to the people.

Chapman's Nerve Breaking Down

Wethersfield, Conn., Feb. 24.—With less than a week of life allotted to him by law, Gerald Chapman, notorious bandit, confined in the state prison here under sentence of death for the slaying of a New Britain, Conn., policeman, is showing signs of nervousness, prison officials said today. Chapman is very irritable.

Chapman's lawyers will ask Governor Trumbull for a third reprieve tomorrow. The request must be presented by H. M. Alcorn, state's attorney, who has declared he will present the request if Chapman's counsel are sincere in their efforts to appeal to the supreme court of the United States.

Meanwhile Chapman has conferred with a prison chaplain of the Roman Catholic Church. He reads continuously and each day is given an hour of exercise which is limited to walking in an isolated corridor of the prison.

He does little talking and much thinking. Occasionally Chapman writes notes which he turns over to his counsel on their visits to the prison and which contain his plans for future defense action—if his third reprieve is granted.

Senate Approves Industries Probe

For Purpose of Obtaining Information on Nearly 200 Labor Bills Before Lawmakers—Mastick Will Continue to Fight.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 24.—The senate today adopted the resolution introduced by Senator Mastick, providing for a general investigation of industrial conditions in the state, with a view of obtaining information on nearly 200 labor bills now pending before the lawmakers.

The vote on the resolution was 24 to 7, upon a reconsidered vote demanded by Senator Downing, Democratic leader, who held that the resolution had been forced through after its report by the finance committee.

Senator Downing said he wanted it understood that the bill providing for a 48-hour law for women in industry should not be included within the scope of the resolution.

The resolution carries an appropriation of $25,000 and provides for a report of the commission, consisting of three members, three assemblymen and a representative of labor, one of manufacturers and one to represent the public, by February 15, 1927.

In voting for the resolution, Senator Mastick, Westchester Republican, said he would continue to fight for the passage of his bill providing for a 48-hour working week for women in industry.

The Democrats have charged that the real purpose of the proposed investigation was to prevent the passage at this session of 48-hour law bill.

Chandlers Have Returned Home

Dr. and Mrs. George F. Chandler have returned home from Europe and the doctor will resume his practice on Friday. They visited Central Europe on their seven weeks' trip, touring through Holland, Germany, Italy, Austria and Czechoslovakia.

CASTLE INJURED IN FALL FROM THE WAGON

John Castle of Glenford was severely injured late Tuesday afternoon in a fall from a load of ice. Mr. Castle was assisting John Walker fill his ice house and in loading the ice boxes slipped throwing him off the wagon to the ground. He was taken to the office of Dr. H. P. Van Wagoner on John street where an X-ray examination showed a bad fracture of the arm near the shoulder. After giving the necessary surgical attention Mr. Castle was conveyed to his home at Glenford.

March Term of Supreme Court

Judge Staley Will Preside at March Term of Supreme Court With Calendar of 329 Cases—Mark Cases for Trial Friday.

The March term of the supreme court will be convened at the court house Monday, March 1, with Judge Ellis J. Staley presiding. A trial and grand jury will be in attendance.

A calendar of 329 cases will keep the court occupied here for some time and it is probable that there will be considerable trial work. Later in the spring the difficulty in securing and keeping jurors makes long terms difficult.

On Friday afternoon of this week Deputy County Clerk Geroldsek will meet the lawyers having cases upon the calendar and call the cases, marking such cases as are ready for trial by both sides so that on the opening day of court a day calendar will be ready for the court. The call of the calendar for marking of cases will be taken up at two o'clock Friday afternoon.

Slight Hope For Mayor Hackett

Havana, Feb. 24.—The condition of William S. Hackett, mayor of Albany, who was injured in an automobile accident here a week ago, was critical today. Slight hope was entertained by physicians for his recovery.

Physicians said this morning that the operation performed last night to check erysipelas, which has set in, had not been successful. The mayor in his fall from the automobile had been injured about the face and body and had suffered from concussion of the brain. He was leaning against the door of the car when it gave way. Everything now depends upon the patient's vitality, the doctors said, and his death may be a question of hours and it may not come for days, they believed.

This morning surgeons held a consultation regarding the result of last night's operation. They said later that complications had set in and that there was "only slight hope" of the mayor's recovery.

Chicago Gunmen Kill "The Eagle"

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 24.—Gangland replied today to the drive of police and federal agents against the mafia and alien gunmen with its forty-first murder since last July in the gang warfare which has control of illicit booze as its object.

The victim was Edward Bardella, 23, "The Eagle," he was called in the underworld. Bardella "knew too much," police said today. Moreover, he had decided to "turn cop" and had applied for a job on the police force. So last night "The Eagle" was "taken for a ride" and at dawn today his bullet riddled body was found on a rubbish heap in an alley.

Twenty-two of the men arrested Monday night still were held today. Deportation proceedings against a dozen were to be begun during the day while the others were to be held for further investigation.

CAROL WILL CONFER WITH RUMANIAN NATIONALISTS.

Milan, Italy, Feb. 24.—Prince Carol, traveling under the name of Prince Caraiman, and accompanied by Madame Lupescu, for love of whom he was alleged to have renounced his succession to the Rumanian throne, left Milan today for Paris to meet representatives of the Rumanian Nationalist party at a political conference of vital importance.

Paris, Feb. 24.—Prince Carol and Madame Lupescu are expected to arrive here late this afternoon. The Rumanian legation denied any knowledge of the prince's coming to Paris, but it was learned that the legation has received a suite at the Hotel Chambord.

TWO HUNDRED CLAIM FORTUNE OF TERAN

San Vicente Jr. La Barquera, Spain, Feb. 24.—Two hundred persons, all claiming to be direct descendants of Jose Maria Teran, viceroys of Mexico, during the Spanish dominion, met and organized today to claim the "fabulous" fortune left by Teran.

Teran, who ruled Mexico when that land sent hundreds of millions of gold and silver bullion to the mother country, is believed to have accumulated an enormous personal fortune which has never been claimed.

CLASH BETWEEN POLISH AND LITHUANIAN TROOPS.

London, Feb. 24.—Dispatches from Warsaw and Riga today confirmed reports that Lithuanian and Polish troops had clashed in a skirmish on the border dividing the two countries. There were no casualties. The Polish, however, took several Lithuanian prisoners. The clashes occurred when Lithuanians entered each other's border areas.

Hotel Labor Is 80 Per Cent Local

Despite Unforeseen Obstacles the Governor Clinton Hotel Is 85 Per Cent Completed and Positive Opening Date Will Be Fixed by May 1.

Herbert Carl, president of the Kingston Community Hotel Corporation, on being asked how the prospects were for the opening of the Governor Clinton Hotel, said that he had just been in conference with Mr. Jackson, the construction superintendent, and that he had been given almost positive assurance that by the first of May the opening date could be set.

Numerous unforeseen obstacles had to be contended with. Marble for the main stairs had been delayed by fire but is now on the road from Tennessee. There has also been some delay in the trim for part of the construction but a man is now on the way to Louisville, Ky., to look after that part of the job, and it will be rolling soon.

Plastering on the upper floors is about 85 per cent completed and the contractors are planning to have the floors ready for carpet and furniture by March 20. With short intervals the other floors will be completed. On the main floor the plastering has been completed except for the lobby and the coffee shop. Torrazzo is now being laid on the main floor and tile is being laid in the bath rooms.

The kitchen and pantry are now ready for equipment and Mr. Reben of L. Barth & Company, who is looking after this and the refrigeration, promises there will be no slackness on his part of the job.

Mr. McKittick, who has the painting contract, stated that if necessary he would be able to put on 15 extra men when it came to the finish. He will be the last man to get at his work and when the painting is done, the building will be ready for occupancy. All doors in the building have now been painted and the painting work is being carried on as rapidly as the men can get at the work which necessarily must follow the other workmen.

Practically everything in the way of furnishings has been signed up for with a few more local bids yet to come in for some goods.

Mr. Carl stated that a census had been taken and it was found that 80 per cent of the men employed on the building had been local mechanics. Some of the work had to be done by specialists which required out of town men and supervision but practically all of the work has been done by local men. This fact has been a great satisfaction to the building committee.

As time draws near of the opening many applications are coming in for all kinds of positions. By April 1st the manager will be at his office in the hotel and will consider all applications. It is the wish of the local directors and committees that as far as possible local people be given preference.

Mr. Carl stated that at all times it should be kept in mind that the Governor Clinton Hotel is a community hotel and should be a community interest.

NEW PRECEDENT IN SOCIAL RULES OF WHITE HOUSE

The President Does Not Call for Lady or See Her Home.

Washington, Feb. 24.—A precedent in White House social custom was written into the Capital's etiquette books today.

It might be phrased thus: "The president of the United States does not call for a lady nor conduct her home."

For the first time in many years, a president attended a formal function last night, unaccompanied by the mistress of the White House. The occasion was a dinner given by Attorney General John G. Sargent.

Mrs. Coolidge is suffering from a severe cold and was unable to attend. Because of the close personal friendship with the attorney general, the president decided to attend anyway. Finding that Mrs. William M. Jardine, wife of the secretary of agriculture, had no engagement, she was invited to accompany the president to the dinner.

The social members of the White House debated. The question was: Should the president call for his dinner companion?

The answer was finally "no." The White House housewife was sent for Mrs. Jardine and she came to the White House, joined the president and went to the dinner. Returning, the housewife departed the president at the mansion and then took Mrs. Jardine home.

Vote on Disposal Of Bradley Estate

Colonel Thomas W. Bradley Left Residue of Estate to Village of Walden—Sum of $49,000 Available for Village Purposes.

At the village election to be held in Walden on March 15, the voters will be asked to vote upon three propositions concerning disposal of the residue of the estate of the late T. W. Bradley, which was left to the village of Walden.

At the Republican village caucus last Thursday night, E. C. Dell, one of the executors of the estate, stated that there is approximately $388,000 in personal property in the estate, and that, after apportionment of personal bequests had been made to the amount of approximately $339,000, about $49,000 will come to the village. Considerable land will also become village property.

Rights of way through some of the lands on the east side of Ulster avenue have been retained and the balance of this land will be disposed of. The lands on the west side of Ulster avenue which run to the Walkill river will be retained for the present and a section of this land can be used for park purposes.

Suggests Endowment.

When the municipal building was erected Mr. Dell said the village, and Col. Bradley put up $35,000 each for its construction. Col. Bradley furnished the money for the addition of the Josephine Louise Library and its equipment. Knowing his desire to see the library endowed in such a manner that it would not be a burden to the village, the executors and the village trustees, knowing the colonel's desires, believed it a good plan to endow the library with a fund of from $20,000 to $25,000 of the residue of about $49,000. Mr. Dell stated that he knew from Col. Bradley's correspondence with the library committee that it had been the benefactor's plan to endow the library property but he died before he had completed his plans.

Park Proposition.

All of the property on the west side of Ulster avenue with the exception of the Bradley homestead belongs to the village. Mr. Dell stated that the will provided that an ample portion of this property was to be used for park purposes. Mr. Dell said that the executors and village officials do not want to make a park proposition that will be burdensome to the village but believe that a comprehensive plan should be drawn up and developed.

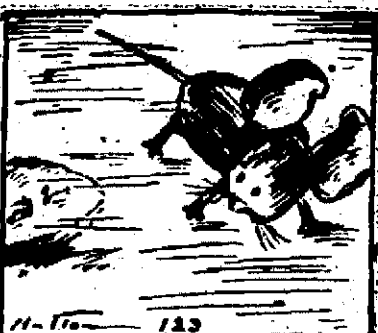

It is recalled that on the night Col. Bradley proposed to an assembly of village voters that a municipal building be erected. He first offered to meet the village half way on the proposition, dollar for dollar, which meant a bond issue of $35,000 for the village, and then made the statement that there "would" some day be money enough to retire the bonds of the village. When he made that statement he evidently intended to make provision in his will for the retirement of the bonds. He did make such provision and the building bonds have been retired with money left by Mr. Bradley, bonds to the extent of $30,000 being paid off. Therefore, the municipal building, which is one of the finest in the state, cost the village of Walden about $5,000. Its replacement today would probably cost $300,000.

People to Vote.

The voters will have three propositions placed before them and they will be asked to vote upon them, as Mr. Dell said that the executors and trustees believed that the people should have the decision on the disposal of the residue of the estate as village interests.

Nutty Natural History

By HUGH HUTTON.

THE PINK-WHEELED OYSTERS.

Although nearly exterminated by the oyster farmers, this creature continues to make nocturnal raids on the oyster beds, especially during the "R" months when prices are high. Crawling out from their shore nests along the muddy bottom of the bay, they will come up on a bed full of sleeping oysters. Finding one that is snoring loudly, the rat will insert his tail in the oyster's open mouth, whereupon the oyster clamps down tightly and the rat drags him off. Steel traps nailed to the bottom of the water and operating devices that imitate a snore are very effective in reducing this pest.

This one trying to decide whether this oyster is awake or not has a peculiar habit of peering into a shell and with ink spot eyes attached. The ears are half peanut shells, and the legs are cloven. A cat food toothpick makes a serviceable tail. (Metropolitan Newspaper Service.) (Tomorrow—The Schlemm's Sheeks.)

Seward, Mrs. Perry Deyo and Miss G. C. LeFevre.

The surrogate of Ulster county, George F. Kaufman, has appointed Charles S. Wood of Kingston and Elling Harp of New Paltz as appraisers for the estate of the late J. M. DeWitt of New Paltz.

On Saturday, February 13, the New Paltz Girl Scouts went on a sleighride to Springtown. On the return to headquarters refreshments of sandwiches, cake and candy, were served and games enjoyed until the parting hour came.

The New Paltz Troop of Boy Scouts now have rooms in the A. P. LeFevre building immediately above the trustees' room. They have formerly been holding their meetings in the Episcopal and Methodist Church basements. At a recent meeting of the local department a pool table and all necessary equipment were given to the troop.

The Christian Endeavor which was organized a few weeks ago at the Reformed Church, had a supper in the church parlor on February 9, and a sleighing party is being planned for a future date.

Mrs. DeWitt C. Seward entertained the Auction Club Monday.

Miss Branner spent the week end with her parents.

Marius Petersen has a number of pupils whom he is giving violin lessons.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. DuBois spent several days with Mr. and Mrs. Perry Deyo the past week.

Daniel Shaw attended the testimonial dinner to Judge Schrick, Democratic chairman of Ulster county, at the Stuyvesant Hotel Kingston on Tuesday night. It was a big affair with some 140 guests present.

Mrs. Hattie Hardenburgh of Gardiner spent a few days the past week with Mrs. Webb Kniffen.

Mrs. J. Nonemacher of "Comfort Cottage" was pleasantly surprised Monday evening upon going to Mrs. Lewis Ten Hag's to find that a farewell party had been planned for her. The present Normal girls of "Comfort Cottage" and those who were there last year, were the guilty parties, as far as the surprise was concerned. Mrs. Nonemacher was presented with a writing case by her girls to remind her not to forget her friends in New Paltz. Mrs. Nonemacher will sail for California in the spring.

David H. Van Wageningen has bought a new De Luxe Oldsmobile sedan of Thomas H. Elliott. He was the first purchaser at the Oldsmobile show that was in progress at the Central Garage the past week.

Mrs. Gertrude E. Deyo writes to friends from Lakeland, Florida, that carloads of strawberries are shipped from Lakeland to New York now. Mrs. Deyo and Mrs. Vennema expect to spend the month of March in Fort Lauderdale.

Erwin DuBois of the United Electric Light and Power Company, New York city, spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Wurt DuBois.

KINGSTON WOMAN COMPOSES NEW MARCH.

The Sunday Star of Washington, D. C., in its theatre section, printed the following on February 14, the composer referred to being a former Kingston woman, daughter of the late Jesse M. Decker, for many years a newspaper man here: "Sade Catherine Coles, a resident of Washington and a member of the District of Columbia League of American Pen Women, has composed a new march, which was used by the American Legion Veterans recently. The work is named for the legion and dedicated to that organization. At the legion ball held recently this march was played a special number and seemed to arouse much interest. Mrs. Coles' work has also been broadcast by the Boverstein Orchestra and played by the Metropolitan Orchestra."

How to Kill "Flu" and Cold Germs

AMAZING RESULTS REPORTED.

So many people report such remarkable results in warding off colds and "flu" through the use of a new method of treatment that it seems no more than right that greater publicity should be given to the new idea. Just ask your druggist for RI-AN Tablets and take one or two when you first feel chilly or begin to have aches and pains. Continue this treatment and all disagreeable symptoms will disappear. This same prescription is used by many physicians so it is perfectly safe.

EUREKA.

Eureka, Feb. 24.—James Smith is the owner of a new Nash car.

Almost every family around here is afflicted with a cold. Doctors are kept busy. Most of the sick are on the gate at this writing.

Mrs. Edwin Moore and daughter, Harriet and Fernie, spent a day recently with Mrs. Neore's parents in Eureka.

Mrs. Arthur Burch, who has been quite ill the past week, is a little better at this writing.

A young man came driving down the highway with a small car this morning at a moderate rate, when the car skidded across the road on the turn of road near William Ryan's, which loaded car and driver in the ditch and against the bank. Several young men happened along and pulled him out. No damage done. Those troubles is ill.

Ed Kratz and Lewis Ryan have been busy the past week filling James Smith's ice house.

The Montic M. E. Ladies Aid held their annual meeting Thursday last at Mrs. Anna Fuller's. About 25 were present.

Rotary Hears Of Farm Thefts

Automobiles Who Helped Sell to Apple and Other Fruit in Same Class as Chicken Thief Says Flanagan—Schultz Presents Club With Flag.

The automobile who helps himself to apples and other fruit from a farmer's orchard is in the same class as a chicken thief was the gist of the remarks made by E. A. Flanagan, Assistant County Leader from Cornell University, who spoke on "Vigilance Work of the New York State Farm Bureau Federation" at the second meeting of the Kingston Rotary Club at the Y. M. C. A. The federation is organizing an educational campaign to protect farmers from losses by theft and Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs will be asked to cooperate.

The Kingston Rotary Club is the first Rotary Club in the state to be asked to cooperate and on Thursday the speaker will address the Kingston Kiwanis Club on the same lines as he spoke today.

Mr. Flanagan called attention to the losses sustained by farmers from the theft of fruit. He related several incidents that had occurred in the western part of the state. He said that one farmer had spent a large sum of money landscaping the land around his farm house and had planted flowers and hedges. Fire destroyed his home. A day or so later when he visited the scene of the fire it was to find an automobile in the two thousand dollar class in his yard and the owner, a wealthy and respected resident of a nearby city, helping herself to the flowers and bulbs. She became indignant when questioned and said she had thought no one lived on the farm.

Another incident was that of a party of automobilists stopping at a farm and stealing two bushels of apples. When they returned to the car it was to find that the farmer had removed one of the tires. They indignantly asked him why he had dared do it and he had replied that he had as much right to the tire as they to his apples.

Probably the lowest form of theft in any community was the chicken thief but to come right down to brass tacks the chicken thief was no worse than the woman who had stolen the flowers and plants or the men who had stolen the apples. It had been estimated that the loss to farmers by theft of fruits and produce in New York state ran into many thousands of dollars. The amount could never be accurately stated.

To reduce this loss was the plan of the State Farm Bureau Federation which was inaugurating an educational campaign. To help in the spreading of the campaign Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs would be appealed to. Later on farms would be posted. In some parts of the state the plan of offering a reward of $25 for grand larceny cases and $10 reward for petty larceny cases was working very favorably.

The better type of citizens when they realized the large financial loss sustained by the farming industry by theft would assist in eliminating it. He said that the theft of Christmas trees was also large in the state. The man who was a respected citizen and brought up his children on Sunday to live right, on a week day would take them into his car and go out in the country around the holiday time and steal a Christmas tree so that the home festivities would be complete. This educational campaign was planned to reach that type of man so that he would realize that in helping himself to the produce from a farm he was as much a thief as if he had gone into a store and helped himself to merchandise.

In closing Mr. Flanagan thanked the club for the privilege of appearing before it.

Martin Goldrick, brick manufacturer, was welcomed into the club as a new member with the usual banian ceremonies.

Schuyler Schultz presented the club with a beautiful American flag and at his request the presentation address was made by Arthur C. Conroy, who spoke briefly but eloquently. The gift was accepted with a vote of thanks.

The club then adjourned after singing "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean."

Enright Case Going to Jury

Bath, N. Y., Feb. 24.—The fate of Michael Enright, 52 year old farmer on trial in county court for the murder of Timothy Shay, farm hand, was expected to be placed in the jury's hands late this afternoon. In a two hour summary, Thomas F. Rogers, chief for the defense contended the state had nothing but circumstantial evidence on which to base its charge and that the prosecution's medical experts had failed to show Shay died from the blow of an axe.

He pointed to Enright's reputation in the community and declared it impossible he should have killed Shay, an old friend. The prosecution, he declared, had not shown a motive for the alleged crime.

District Attorney Guy Cheney was to follow with his summary, after which Judge Brown was to charge the jury.

The jury will have before it the conflicting testimony of two sets of physicians, one claiming Shay died from the blow of an instrument and the other that the wound on his head was not deep enough to indicate violence had been committed.

PORT EWEN.
Port Ewen, Feb. 24.—Mrs. Mead Davis of Main street is ill of grip. Dr. George W. Ross is attending her.

There was a large attendance at the supper in the Sunday school room of the Reformed Church Friday evening, also a large number of people attended the entertainment. The affair was a complete success both socially and financially.

Harry Secor of Green street is confined to his home with an attack of neuritis.

Great preparations are being made for the Birthday Social to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Torrens on Broadway Friday evening. Invitations are sent out for contributions for your birthday dates. Homemade ice cream and cake on sale.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lampman and daughter Marian of Glens Falls are guests of Mr. Lampman's father John Lampman, Sr., on Broadway.

There was a large attendance at Hope Temple, No. 89, Pythian Sisters, Monday evening. At the close of the meeting bountiful refreshments were served. At the next meeting on March 8th the district deputy of the temple Mrs. Bertha Spinnewebber will make an official visit.

Mrs. Charles Zimmerman of Salem street is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Van Wort at Hoboken, N. J.

At the festival there will be on sale cherry pie, tarts, cakes and other home made goodies. There will also be a package booth. The public is cordially invited to attend. The minstrel will begin at 8:15 o'clock.

RIP WILL NEVER BE RECONCILED WITH BRIDE.

New York, Feb. 24.—Leonard Kip Rhinelander, off in hiding with his personal attorney, Leon R. Jacobs, will never be reconciled with his quadron bride, Alice Jones Rhinelander. The frank admission during the sensational annulment proceedings last fall, that negro blood flowed in her veins, killed any such possibility, ex-Justice Isaac N. Mills, Kip's trial counsel, announced today upon his return from a sojourn in Florida.

ST. REMY.
St. Remy, Feb. 24.—The flag raising and entertainment at the school house on Washington's Birthday was interesting and well attended, there being about 35 present. The exercises consisted of singing and recitations. The flag, which was obtained by the teacher and scholars, was presented by the teacher, Miss Smith, with appropriate remarks and accepted by Mrs. Sutton in behalf of the school district, the trustees being absent. As the flag was being raised "The Star Spangled Banner" was sung after which refreshments were served.

The Social Club met with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoffman Wednesday night.

The snow is not losing very fast. It's very icy in some places.

Burned to Death.

Witness Tells Of Bimba Speech

Says Lithuanian Radical Declared Red King Would Fly Over Washington and That He Decried Existence of God.

Brockton, Mass., Feb. 24.—Preparations for a revolution in America and the establishing of a Soviet republic was admitted by Anthony Bimba, Lithuanian radical, according to testimony given today by Anthony Endaco, a shoe worker, at the trial of Bimba, for sedition and blasphemy.

"We are organizing American workmen to overthrow the capitalist government and to establish a Soviet republic as in Russia," Bimba announced during a recent speech, according to Endaco, who attended the meeting.

"There is only one Red flag and it will fly in Washington. In Lithuania and over this hall," Bimba declared, Endaco testified.

The witness also testified that the defendant denied the existence of God during his speech.

In front of a large American flag, Anthony Bimba, Brooklyn, N. Y., editor and lecturer, sat in the prisoner's dock in the district court here today and his lawyer, Harry Hoffman, plead for the right of "free speech" and expression of religious belief.

Basing the defense of the charge of blasphemy on the principles of American liberty, Attorney Hoffman spoke eloquently in a court room packed to overflowing with witnesses, police, federal agents and a few spectators.

Hoffman argued that the ancient blasphemy blue law was unconstitutional.

Bimba's pretty wife, fashionably dressed in a raccoon coat, pink hat and an orchid colored dress, stepped through the crowd and took her place as her husband's champion, at the side of his lawyer.

The accused, looking like a youthful scholar, heard himself charged with blasphemy and sedition. The charge was read by Court Clerk Charles King, former National baseball player and umpire.

Hoffman argued that the blasphemy statute was a relic of the days when church and state were one and the same and an offense against the Congregational Churches creed was a crime against the state, a political unit.

"Man has a constitutional right to deny the existence of a God," argued Attorney Hoffman, in arguing his motion to quash the blasphemy charge, "and the courts should protect his belief. Atheism is as much a religious problem as any religion."

City Attorney I. Immanuel Rubin, arguing against the motion, declared that the constitutional issue was not for the court to decide. "This man is not here on a charge of heresy," said Rubin, "but because he has attacked the existence of God and attempted to destroy or disrupt men's reverence for religion."

Rubin declared that the American Government stood on a foundation of religion and must be protected.

LITTLE EXTENTE MAY FORM ANTI-GERMAN BLOC.

Rome, Feb. 24.—Possibilities of an anti-German bloc formed by the Little Entente, France and Italy, were being discussed today when it was learned that M. Nitschich, the Yugoslavian foreign minister, is shortly to visit Rome in company with the Italian ambassador to Belgrade.

The Little Entente is said to have been aroused by Pan-German activities and is prepared to join hands with Italy in an effort to stem any movement for a southern movement of German influence.

Two Uptown Dwellings Sold

Dr. C. B. Van Gansbeck Says Blankfeld Residence—Scherer Residence Sold to Blankfeld.

Contracts were signed Tuesday for one of the largest uptown real estate transactions in dwellings that Kingston has witnessed in some time. Leon Blankfeld and wife have sold to Dr. Chester Bruce Van Gansbeck and wife their beautiful dwelling located at 78 St. James street. George J. Scherer and wife have sold their fine residence at 74 St. James street to Mr. and Mrs. Blankfeld. The residence purchased by Dr. Van Gansbeck was purchased some time ago by Mr. Blankfeld from A. D. Rose. The Scherer property which Mr. and Mrs. Blankfeld have now contracted to purchase is the former Paken property nearly opposite.

Negotiations for the sale of the two properties have been going on for some time and were consummated by Frank S. Hyatt, real estate broker of 216 Fair street.

Dr. Van Gansbeck will add to his home an extra room for office purposes and when completed he will have one of the finest and most modern offices and dwellings in the city. The Blankfelds will make extensive alterations to the home they have purchased and Mr. and Mrs. Scherer contemplate constructing a modern home in the near future.

All is fair in love and war, and there are other points of similarity.

AMERICAN NEWSPAPERS.

In an Associated Press dispatch from Moscow under date of February 5, Leon Trotsky, in a speech comparing Russian and American newspapers is quoted as saying to an audience of Russian workers:
It is scarcely possible to find anything less attractive than the contents of the average American newspaper. But American editors have the faculty of giving their readers just what they desire.
Yes, and they will continue to do so, and also give the American people their best editorial opinion, on matters which would not please the Bolshevik leader. Naturally American newspapers are unattractive to Mr. Trotsky, for he has no power to muzzle them and control their content, as he has in Russia. America is the nation it is today because it has 20,000 publications for 110,000,000 people and everybody can read. Bolshevik dictators cannot exist in such a nation because there is no chance to fool millions of uninformed persons.
The quickest way to bring permanent stability to Russia, would be to ship in a lot of good American printing presses and American editors and let them discuss conditions as they found them, unhampered by the crushing hand of Bolshevik officialdom. Naturally, these would be "unattractive" papers to Mr. Trotsky because every one that was printed would shorten the reign of terror, and hasten the day of peace, plenty and education for the Russian people.
Let America be thankful that it has thousands of newspapers that are extremely unattractive to Mr. Trotsky and his supporters.

CATTLE MORE VALUABLE.

The number of milk cows two years old and over in New York state has been declining continuously since 1920, according to reports received by Commissioner Berne A. Pryke, of the Department of Farms and Markets. During the past year there was a decline of about two per cent in number, with a large increase in value. In the opinion of some of those who have investigated the cause of this has been the return for milk, principally during 1922, 1923 and 1924. The intensive tuberculosis eradication campaign in recent years is also a factor in this reduction in the number of cattle in New York and other eastern states. Cattle in New York state to the number of from 50,000 to 60,000 are condemned and slaughtered annually after examination and tuberculosis test.
Figures submitted to Commissioner Pryke show that approximately as many cattle for dairy and breeding purposes were shipped into the state as were shipped out in the year 1925, but in previous years a much larger number were shipped out than were brought into the state. The number of milk cows now on farms is about three per cent less than the pre-war average, 1910-1914, and in the meantime the consuming population has been increasing.
Not only has the decline been shown in New York but other eastern states have a similar record. Records show that New York in 1925 had 1,228,000 milk cows two years old and over, valued at $44,490,000, and that in 1925 the number was 1,374,000, valued at $102,320,000. An increase in the value is shown from $62 in 1925 to $80 per head in 1926.
Cheaper capital is undoubtedly one of the basic needs of agriculture, just as much as better business methods. Many professional first-class farmers who have never worked in a furrow and could not tell which end of a horse collar goes up. Most farmers are trained all their lives in economy, and all other lines of business and industry are more liberally organized than cattle of the soil. On no line of relief to agriculture has there been more accomplished than in promoting better farm loans, but the fact remains that the great bulk of financial relief has come through the farm mortgage banks.
Three states have of late been obliged to employ the military to protect criminals on trial from threatening mobs. New York, Kentucky and Delaware, in the last named even the use of "tear gas" by the police being regarded as necessary. This may indicate that there is still something barbarous beneath our civilized skins, but perhaps it also points toward no inconsiderable popular distrust of the courts.

According to Prof. Joly of the University of Dublin, the earth's crust is constantly growing hotter and in time it will burst into liquid flame, but fortunately it will take "some thirty to fifty million years" for it to come off. If these prophesying professors did not deal in such large figures, they might have hopes of inducing an unconcerned public to sit up and take some notice.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

A POINT ABOUT EPILEPSY.

One of the ailments that research men are working upon most patiently is what is called "fits" or epilepsy. It is not a pleasant thing to think about nor to witness, but some of the points these investigators have discovered are worth thinking about. They find that there are three ages at which epilepsy seems to be most frequent, at twenty, from thirty to thirty-five, and at fifty, with more men than women affected. Also that a little portion of a process in the skull was thickened in from thirty to forty per cent of the cases.
Further, that the processes of the body at rest in these individuals did not seem to be doing as much work as in normal folks, or in other words, the whole system was just a little below par.
And one more point is that there is a history of a hereditary tendency in some cases.
Now the interesting thing about all this is that practically every case had one symptom in common, that is constipation.
In one hospital some years ago, they felt that the exciting cause was a slow, almost a stoppage, in the large intestine, and if a portion of the intestine were removed they could cure the epilepsy. A series of over fifty cases underwent the operation, and the "fits" stopped in every case.
However, within a few weeks, months, and years, they gradually returned in nearly all the cases.
The removal of the appendix in chronic appendicitis has caused the fits to disappear sometimes.
The washing out of the stomach two or three times a week, has prevented attacks over a period of nearly two years in some cases.
Now what is my point?
Physicians are not quite decided as to the cause of epilepsy although it is felt that the center at fault is in the brain.
But the one big thing that they do know is that while a history of hereditary mental disturbance, a thickened skull, high blood pressure, or other conditions are present, they are simply like a fire place with wood and coal all ready to have the match applied.
Is constipation the match that starts the fire?
Many physicians think so.

MT. TREMPER.

Mr. Tremper, Feb. 24.—Mrs. Henry Hoffman is spending a few days visiting relatives at Kingston. Miss Mabelle DeVal of Stuyvesant spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. DeVal. Mr. Higgins returned to Gilboa on Tuesday. He has been spending a few weeks' vacation with his family here and during that time he has been making some extensive improvements to the interior of his home.
The ladies were to meet at the hall to sew on Friday afternoon but postponed the meeting on account of it being so stormy.
Mrs. John Gardner and Mrs. William Toms entertained several guests Sunday evening at supper.
Rumor has it that a number of new cottages and bungalows will be erected on different properties here this spring.
Lewis Rion and family have moved from Phenicia to the Rion home here.
Miss Norman Wilber spent Tuesday with Mrs. Henry Hoffman. Eugene Hoffman of Kingston spent Sunday at his home here.

Madrigal

The Madrigal is one of the older forms of choral singing. Generally, there are four parts, but often it is written in five or six parts. It is a secular composition, requiring more skill than the ordinary four-part choir. It should be sung without accompaniment so that the different melodies are heard at the same time.

Cod Liver Oil Best with Iron to Build You Up

Easy to Take in New Tablet Form How to Order at the Drug Store

If thin, weak, nervous or run-down, there is nothing better for you than Cod Liver Oil and Iron. Iron builds strength, adds flesh, cures weakness and nerve pain. And now you can take Cod Liver Oil without the fishy taste. For chemists have extracted from the oil the substance and other than building strength-giving elements. These are combined with iron in easy-to-swallow tablet form. Simply take a Cod Liver Oil and Iron Tablet in order from your druggist. You'll soon feel well and have a new, younger, well-sustained body.

Today's Story in New York History

By Frederic A. Godcharles.

(Copyright, 1926, by the Author)

To remove any disputes which might subsequently arise in respect to his title in consequence of the surrender of the province when the Dutch recaptured New York, July 30, 1673, and which by the treaty of Westminster, restored the province again to the English, the Duke of York obtained from the King a new patent, covering the same lands which had been granted him in 1664.
On August 1, 1674, two days after this patent was executed, the duke appointed Major Edmund Andros, the first governor after the retrocession, to receive possession of the province at the hands of the Dutch, and to renew the absolute authority of the proprietary.
Andros was brought up as a page in the royal family of England, and had become a favorite of King Charles II, and his brother, the Duke of York. He had served, during the exile of the royal family, in the army of Prince Henry of Nassau, and after the restoration he gained some distinction in the war against the Dutch, and in 1672, having in the meanwhile married an heiress, he was made major of a regiment of dragoons. This was the highest promotion he had reached before he came to New York. He was then thirty-seven years of age.
Andros was a public officer of ability, and, while pure in life and of spotless integrity, has been known to history for an imperious and despotic disposition.
Major Andros and his retinue set sail in the frigates "Diamond" and "Castle," and anchored off Staten Island, October 22, 1674.
As soon as their arrival was made known in the city, the Dutch Governor, Anthony Colv, by advice of his Council, asked of Andros to be allowed eight days to arrange for the transfer of the government. Meanwhile a committee was sent on board for the purpose of obtaining certain privileges for the Dutch inhabitants of New Amsterdam.
The new governor received the delegation with courtesy and hospitality and assured them the Dutch citizens should enjoy all the privileges and liberties accorded to English subjects. He even issued a proclamation from his vessel in which he confirmed all former grants, privileges or concessions heretofore granted.

On November 9, Governor Colv, having completed arrangements for delivering the keys of the city to the representative of the Crown of England, advised the assembled officers that they were officially released from their oaths to the States General and the Prince of Orange, and notified them that, on the following day, he would deliver the fort and the province to the newly appointed Governor Andros.
Accordingly, at the time set, November 10, 1674, Governor Andros, accompanied by his estimable wife, landed and, amid much ceremony, received the welcome of the Dutch Governor, who, still further to show his good will and sincerity in the matter, presented him with his own coach and three richly caparisoned horses. The colors of Great Britain were run up on the flag staff of Fort William Henry, and amid salvos of artillery, the name was changed to Fort James, and the Dutch city of New Orange once more received the name of New York, a name which it has ever since retained.
Andros treated with the Indians to neutralize the influence of the French, but he soon became involved in numerous misunderstandings with adjoining colonies on account of his extensive claims to jurisdiction. Owing to disputes with New Jersey, he was recalled in 1681, accused of maladministration, but was exonerated of all charges.
In 1686, on the accession of James II, he was appointed governor of the dominion of New England, which included all the English North American settlements between Maryland and Canada, except Pennsylvania. In the interim the office of governor had been filled by Thomas Dongan, an Irish soldier, a Catholic and a discreet and conservative leader.
Governor Andros arrived in Boston December 21, 1686, and at once put into execution a number of measures which were extremely obnoxious to the colonists. Although proclaiming religious freedom, he restrained the liberty of the press, arbitrarily levied enormous taxes, and compelled landowners to procure new titles to their property, for which exorbitant charges were made.
By his aggressions on the territory of the Penobscot Indians he brought on the Indian War of 1688. The people of Boston, unable to endure the severity of his administration, revolted, and on April 18, 1689, Andros was deposed and imprisoned with fifty of his followers. In the following year he was sent to England, where charges were brought against him, but he was never brought to trial.

In 1692 Andros again returned to America as governor of Virginia and remained until 1694, during the storm of the people by his efforts to promote their colony. From 1704 to 1706 he was governor of the Island of Jersey, and subsequently lived in London, when he died February 24, 1714.

150 YEARS AGO

The Origin of the U. S. A.

By Jonathan A. Rawson, Jr.

NOT SURE, BUT PLAYING SAFE.

To be independent of Great Britain or not to be independent—that was the question before the colonies in the first half of 1776. New England and Virginia, it was believed, were ready for independence as early as February. But the middle colonies were not so sure. There were powerful arguments on both sides of the momentous debate then raging, and the debate was to continue for more than four months. And in the meantime the patriots in all colonies were getting ready for whatever might happen, even where independence was still frowned upon by a majority of the people.

Maryland, for instance, did not part company with her British governor until ten days before the Declaration of Independence was signed, but many months before that she had organized her revolutionary Convention and Council of Safety. Upon these bodies fell the immense responsibility of keeping the colony in a state of defense, and for providing the only active colonial government then in operation. The details that came before these bodies for attention, and the care given by them to the most trifling questions were without end. Scores of departments, bureaus and committees at Washington and the state capitals now attend to innumerable little matters such as 150 years ago could be handled only in those conventions and committees of the Revolution. Taking Maryland again as an example, its Council of Safety, received and considered 150 years ago today this appeal from a recruiting officer: "I am much afraid we shall be pushed for a Drummer & Fifer. I have been informed by Mr. Davidson the second Lieutenant that there is a servant in Baltimore who has two years to serve who is a good fellow, which he will sell for fifteen pounds or thereabouts, as his wages in one year would pay that sum and find him clothes. I should be much obliged to you to allow me to purchase him."

On the same day the Council wrote to the Maryland delegates in the Continental Congress: "The demands are very considerable for raising, clothing and paying the troops, and furnishing Rations, to say nothing of other Disbursements. . . . Our Troops are drawing together very fast, we shall be glad to have the Arms intended for this Province. . . . The Manufacture of guns goes on but slowly. . . . Pray purchase for the use of the Province 50 Ream of Cartridge Paper." (Copyright, 1926, by The Putnam Syndicate.)

High Grade But Not High Priced

A Message—

To those people who have imagined they could not afford to own a room, house or apartment furnished with Stock & Cordts Furniture.

Because so many of the better homes and apartments of Kingston and environs have for many years been outfitted by Stock & Cordts, some people may have the idea that Stock & Cordts furniture must be high in price.

The reason that so many better homes of Kingston have been furnished by Stock & Cordts is because the owners of these homes know values and REALIZE the value of "America's Finest Furniture" produced for us by manufacturers who have an unimpeachable reputation for high quality and honest craftsmanship, and the integrity of Stock & Cordts.

Instead of Stock & Cordts Furniture being high in price, some of the most thrifty and discriminating people of Kingston are most agreeably surprised at the price moderation that prevails at our large store.

But come, INSPECT, COMPARE, JUDGE. . . let your own good judgment—your own eyes convince you that Stock & Cordts Furniture is within the reach of every Kingston purse.

CHANDLER

—for Power

Five world's records belong to Chandler—proof conclusive of Chandler's power!

(1) Record for climbing the slopes of Pike's Peak, highest of all automobile climbs, in 17 minutes, 48 1/2 seconds. (2) Record of 1000 miles in 689 minutes, average of 86.9 miles an hour. (3) The high gear climbing record on Mt. Diablo. (4) The climbing record up the Continental Divide. (5) The climbing record on Mt. Washington.

Only last month, a Chandler broke the course record at Muroc Lake, California, by doing a mile in 31.1 seconds, an average of 115.3 miles an hour!

—for Progress

The records just mentioned speak volumes for the progress of Chandler's famous Pike's Peak Motor. Progress is likewise evident in new Chandler body developments, and also in the chassis.

All new Chandlers, for instance, now have the great "One Shot" Lubrication System. Plunge a plunger with your heel—just once—and "One Shot" instantly and thoroughly lubricates the entire chassis!

—for Price

All new Chandler prices represent large reductions. Look at the new Twentieth Century Sedan, now $1590; the new Metropolitan Sedan De Luxe, now $1895; the new Seven-Passenger Sedan, now $1995; the new Brougham, now $1695; all prices f.o.b. Cleveland. Quality now talks price—and Chandler sales reflect tremendous gains in Chandler popularity. See these record-winning new models.

Carroll's "Garden Of Eden Party"

New York, Feb. 24.—Even jaded Broadway gasped today when it learned the details of East Carroll's latest party, one of the most sensational ever held in New York.

The high light of the party came when three hundred guests drank the health of an undraped model who lay in a champagne filled bath, tub, and took out drinks.

The guests yelled their approval as pretty Joyce Hawley, a lingerie model, played the role of the nude Baccante, and passed out the champagne from the bath tub.

There was a Charleston contest in which one of the girls found her clothes a nuisance.

Two jazz orchestras played intermittently and the guests danced and drank all night.

Guests were required to sign a card releasing Carroll from claims of any nature arising from the revel.

The party dimmed the fame of even the historic Seelye dinner at Sherry's in 1896 when "Little Egypt" danced on the tables in a shivery costume of nothing at all.

Thaw's presence at the party recalled the famous party given by Stanford White, whom Thaw later shot and killed. At the White party a girl stepped from a pie dressed as Eve.

SUPPER AND STUDY HOUR AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The third of a series of church family suppers and study hours will be held in the chapel of the Round Presbyterian Church on Thursday evening. Supper will be served at 6 o'clock and the study hour will begin at 7:30. The classes will be in charge of Dr. Ellis, William H. H. and Miss Ruth Scott. The ladies will meet in the afternoon to fold surgical dressings for the Chinese hospital.

UNION CENTER.

Union Center, Feb. 24.—Walter Fitzgerald entertained a number of his little friends one afternoon last week in honor of his sixth birthday. G. O. P. Leaders Outline Program

Republicans Expect to Reduce State Income Tax and Carry Out Hughes Recommendations—Opposed to Housing and Water Powers Plan.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 24.—Having made their position clear on the major issues before the Legislature, the Republican leaders today settled down to the task of bringing the session to a close as early in April as possible.

The Republican chiefs, in party caucus, decided to pass some of the legislation recommended by Governor Smith, compromise with the governor on other measures, and absolutely reject other proposals made by the executive.

A four year term for governor, with four years for senators and two years for assemblies will be favored by the Republican leaders in the Legislature of the election takes place on presidential years. Governor Smith insists the election of the governor and the president should not be held the same year.

The Republicans said they would reduce the direct state tax and the income tax "if state finances permit." It is expected there will be a 25 per cent reduction in the income tax but none in the direct tax.

A statement issued by the Republican leaders said they intended to carry out the reorganization of the state government as will be suggested by the committee headed by Charles E. Hughes. The Hughes report is expected to be submitted to the lawmakers next week.

The Republicans will favor an executive budget, if such a proposal is advocated by the Hughes committee and does not strip the lawmakers entirely of discretion in the matter of state expenditures. Governor Smith wants a constitutional executive budget, but, according to report the Hughes committee will not recommend such procedure.

So far as water power is concerned, the Republican leaders will insist that development of power sites be made by private interests. Governor Smith favors state ownership and state development. The Hughes committee is not expected to recommend any change in the state's present water power policy.

The Republicans are absolutely opposed to giving cities control over public utilities. This proposal, long has been advocated by Governor Smith and the Democrats in the Legislature.

While the G. O. P. will favor legislation to relieve the housing problem, they are opposed to the governor's proposal for a state housing bank and a state housing board with power to build and operate cheaper homes.

BROWNING DOESN'T CARE IF "CINDERELLA" MARRIES.

New York, Feb. 24.—Mary Louise Spas, one-time "Cinderella," can get married if she wants to and it won't worry Edward W. Browning, millionaire real estate dealer, who got so much publicity some months ago when he "adopted" Mary.

Browning said today he didn't care if Mary does get married, and doesn't care if she doesn't. He was commenting on the report, which has been denied, however, that Mary, who is now working in Denver, is betrothed to John W. Singleton of Rochester, N. Y.

"Mary Spas!" exclaimed Browning. "Why, she's completely out of my mind. I simply never think of her. I do wish her well, but that's all."

THE CASSOWARY'S MEAL

The Cassowary was blinking. His eyelids were blue and he had double eyes which were quite useful. He was feeling very much flattered. For he had heard there had been a request for him to tell once more about the queer meal he had once had.

He loved telling about it, and though he told it in a slightly different fashion every time, the chief points of the story were always the same.

Sometimes when he was blinking he would close his eyelids which went from side to side, and then he would change and have the eyelids that were at the top and bottom of his eyes close.

The Cassowary had a queer knob on his head, while his neck was of quite a lovely shade of blue.

In front, below his neck, he had a handsome tile of red, of which he was extremely proud.

He thought it went so beautifully with his blue neck, red spots, blue eyelids and his glossy black feathered body.

His feet were very long and it was difficult to know whether he was kneeling or sitting and if he had any legs at all, or merely very long feet.

"I have a dangerous inner claw," he said to the Brush Turkey who was standing in the next yard.

"It will protect me, but I haven't been angry at all lately. It's too bad," he continued, as several others of the Brush Turkey family came and listened to him, "that some creatures have only two toes."

"I have three."

"All me, three toes are so much nicer than two."

"Merely the difference of a toe," said one of the Brush Turkey family, "and what is that?"

"But at that moment the Cassowary yawned, such a yawn that his face was completely hidden, and it seemed as if all he had was a great enormous knob and no eyes or head at all.

Even his beautiful helmet of head-toe was completely hidden by the yawn.

"Such a mouth!" exclaimed one of the Brush Turkeys.

"Isn't it gorgeous?" asked the Cassowary, blushing.

"I didn't mean that," said the Brush Turkey. "I meant it was certainly a mouth, or a knob, that was plenty large enough."

"In the sure," said the Cassowary, proudly. "There is nothing underneath about me."

"I have a generous face, big beak and long feet. All creatures wouldn't care to have big feet, but I'm not all creatures."

"I am myself!"

"Listen, friends," continued the Cassowary. "I have been asked to tell again of one of the meals I had at one time."

"People want to hear of my meals, and this was a particularly fine and unusual one, ha, ha!"

"The Brush Turkeys drew nearer, for they were interested in food."

"I had a baseball for my first course, and a door-knob for the second."

"After I had finished my first two courses I had had enough, for they were both quite filling and substantial—which means that I didn't want more."

"How could you have eaten such objects?" asked the Brush Turkeys.

"I wanted to show the keeper I could do my own marketing and that I had a good direction and a very big beak. Children like to hear of this meal of mine. Here is a Zeelet I've made up about it."

"Yes, I have a mouth so very, very wide. That almost anything can get inside. And so a baseball and door knob I took."

"If you don't believe me—just take a look."

"So the Cassowary yawned, and it was as if he were saying, 'I have been asked to tell again of one of the meals I had at one time.'"

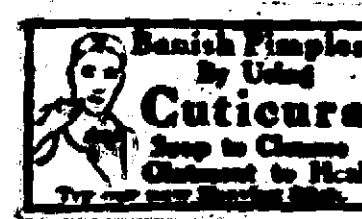

"Little Alice Was Pleased."

Aunt—And were you a very good little girl at church this morning, Alice?"

Alice—Oh, yes, ma'am. A man of seven was a big piece of money, and I said, 'No, thank you.'"

"How the Elephant Walks."

"Oh, ma'am," exclaimed little Alice, "I saw an elephant and he walked backward and ate with his tail."

Women Use
Then dispose of this new hygienic help easily as tissue—no laundry

WOMEN by the millions are discarding the old-time "sanitary pad" for a new and scientific way.

A way that offers protection unknown before. A way, too, that solves the old embarrassment of disposal.

It is called "KOTEX." Eight in 10 better-class women now employ it. Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

It's five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads!

You dine, dance, motor for hours in sheerest frocks without a second's doubt or fear.

It deodorizes, too. And thus ends ALL danger of offending.

You ask for it at any drug or department store, without hesitancy, simply by saying "KOTEX."

Do as millions are doing. End old, insecure ways. Enjoy life every day. Package of twelve costs only a few cents.

Home Bureau At High Falls

High Falls Community Meeting Thursday Evening—Newly Organized Home Bureau Unit Making Local Arrangements for Interesting Program.

The community of High Falls is holding its community meeting on Thursday evening of this week. The meeting will be held in the basement of the Reformed Church and will begin at 7:30.

The Farm and Home Bureaus are cooperating to make this meeting one of unusual interest as High Falls is a newly organized community and the people of the community are unusually enthusiastic in the work.

Mr. Wigsten, Farm Bureau manager, has arranged to have Prof. Ogle, poultry specialist from Cornell, to give a talk, also N. H. Harpp of the conservation commission will speak. Miss Nance, Home Bureau manager, will be present with slides to give an illustrated talk showing the importance of proper food selection.

The local community is arranging to give some added attractions in the way of entertainment. There will be solos by Mrs. Hubert Smith and Gense Beach and reading by Mrs. Willard Adams. Refreshments will be served by the Home Bureau women. Everyone is cordially invited to be present, and a hearty response to the invitation is anticipated.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

Fashion Book Notice.
Send 15c in coin or stamps to The Freeman for our up-to-date Spring and Summer 1926 Book of Fashions, showing color plates, and containing 500 designs of ladies' misses' and children's patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle (illustrating 20 of the various simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

Every Wednesday and Thursday at Reade's Kingston Theatres will be double feature days. For this week opening tonight the feature photoplay No. 1 will be "Lazy Bones." A picture crowded with quaint comedy, wholesome romance based on a thoroughly American play by Owen Davis and produced by William Fox. Feature No. 2 will be "The Pleasure Buyers," founded upon Arthur Somers Roche's murder mystery novel, featuring Irene Rich, with a supporting cast that includes Clive Brooks, Gayne Whitman, June Marlow, Charles Conklin, Edward Peil, Victor Hall and Frank Leigh.

There is also a double feature bill playing at the Opera House tonight which includes feature No. 1, "A Kiss for Cinderella," featuring the Peter Pan Girl, Betty Bronson, a story of a little London maid who loved a policeman and cherished a wonderful dream that came true. Feature No. 2 is Buck Jones's thrilling picture of the timber wolf. For Thursday, Friday and Saturday a big special vaudeville program will hold forth, with the feature photoplay, "The Lone Top," featuring Louie L. Sherman.

At the Auditorium tonight for the last time there will be presented "Little Annie Brown," featuring Mary Pickford. There will be special music.

Don't let the night pass without seeing "The Pleasure Buyers," which is now playing at the Opera House and Thursday at "Dollars Down" with Henry B. Waltham. Tonight, "Livingston's Patrol of Fun."

Chic Two-Piece Frock of Orange Silk Crepe

This is a two piece frock of orange silk crepe with plaited skirt. The design consists of the colors blue, black, green and yellow, and is an outfit that will appeal to many young women.

Lace Most Feminine of All Trimming Materials

When fashions are so very feminine as they are today, and when every tendency is to make them more graceful and softer in line lace is bound to be fashionable.

Lace is the most feminine of all trimmings and one that has been decidedly neglected the past few seasons.

When the craze for heading and embroidery and colorful trimmings swept the country it overshadowed lace and made it of little consideration except on the lingerie frock and the negligee.

Last season dyed laces were introduced and became very popular for afternoon wear, but made very little headway for evening. This season metal laces were brought out in much softer weaves and more interesting patterns than before, and they are growing in popularity.

Gold or silver lace, in the light weaves, gives a very rich effect, and brightened with colorful flowers of vivid satin or velvet, it makes an exceedingly youthful combination as well.

Debutantes and the younger set very much prefer the metal laces to the metal fabrics or brocades that are harder and more lustrous and more mature in feeling.

And now, metal laces and dyed laces having successfully fought for their position, the rest of the lace family is staging a comeback even in white, ecru and the natural lace tints.

Some of the newest evening gowns are featuring lace, not for the entire costume, but for trimming.

Plain Hemstitching Is Very Easy Operation

There are several kinds of hemstitching to be dealt with. For plain hemstitching draw the number of threads called for in the direction of the article you are making. If the hemstitching is near the edge, turn the hem up to the edge of the drawn thread, haste it in and hem it with the hemstitching.

Hold the wrong side toward you and with No. 60 cotton join thread securely in left-hand end. Pass needle behind from fire to eight of the drawn threads. Draw the threads through the loop of thread at the bottom. This stitch should catch the material and, if there is one. Pass the needle behind the next group of threads and continue to work in the same manner all the way across.

When a row of single stitching is complete you can work the other side in the same way.

Cape Coats Promise to Be Fashion for Spring

From present indications the cape coat will be a very elaborate coat style for spring. Quite a number of these cape coats already are being worn. A double breasted green cloth coat was made with a short cape bordered with horizontal stitching to match. It had no fur trimming, but a silver fox was carried to complete the costume.

It is quite apparent that women this season have selected coats that are not only smart, but comfortable, too. Probably annoyed with the single button coat that shows open with the slightest gust of wind many smart women are wearing cloth coats that button from the throat to the very bottom of the hemline.

Yokes

Even though women have long been emancipated they still wear the yoke with evening costumes. This is one of the newest features of this year's fashions. The yokes are usually of a different shade from that of the gown. Sometimes they are formed of the most delicate of lace.

CLOATHES BECOME MORE COMPLICATED AND MORE DIFFICULT TO COOK AT HOME.

Is our freedom endangered by the newest style wrinkles? Pleated skirts, of course, do not hamper our activities and they do provide sufficient leg room, but they entail an obligation to keep them in line. This means, not a matter of merely pressing, but of being in bondage to the pleating machine.

The smallest sports things are nearly always pleated, at least skirts are. Some simple little morning and afternoon frocks, of crepe de Chine, or better still georgette, since it is newer, depend on pleating for their chic, and indeed frequently have no other embellishment.

Advocates of pleating are no respecters of material, one finds that soft wooleus pleat astonishingly well and are most effective. Nor are pleated flowered crepes and chiffons exempt. This passion for pleats is just another indication that fashion has determined that clothes shall not be so simple that they may be made by an amateur, or that the creative achievements of the world's best may be copied without great difficulty. However simple a frock may be in silhouette, the haute couture see to it that there is an intricacy of cut which makes it worth the label it bears and the price it brings.

Vionnet is past master at the art of eccentric cut, and of inlays and inserts which produce graceful outlines, although they appear to be fashioned on geometrical lines.

The same tendency is noted in millinery. The draped hat, in heretofore, appears again on the horizon and brings with it days of great prosperity to the milliner, for the rank and file of women need expert assistance in turning out the new sort of headgear.

Motion Picture Ball Shows Frocks Headed in Petal Effects—Carnival at Hotel Plaza Repeats Season's Elaborate of Chiffon and Metal Cloth Dance Gowns.

Stars and would-be stars who gathered recently at the Plaza for the Third Annual Picture Carnival of the Film Mutual Benefit Bureau evinced a decided favor for the softer types of evening gown, with the overpopular pastel hues chiffon the undercurrent of the style symphony.

The majority of the young girls present, it appeared, had selected a favorite dance frock of the season, with fresh orchid, and quite a surprising amount of baby blue registering in the light tints. Older women recognized the continued wearability of the crepe or satin headed frock, with the softly barred sheath lines which were a feature at the Charity Ball of the previous evening, outstanding when it came to silhouette.

Period frocks except in the case of a few extremely striking and theatrical interpretations were relatively few in proportion to the numbers in which they are at present seen at the smart dance clubs, but a young girl wore a little dress, almost in the full skirted layer effect, with light little bodices of tulle or satin. Lingerie green made one of these charming, with head embroidery of scarlet scattered in tiny petals at wide spaces over the skirt. This petal effect in applique or beading seems to be growing in favor, one of the smartest of the new little frocks at the Motion Picture Carnival showing oddly shaped petals of blue tulle on a frock of pink tulle, worn over a slip of pink tulle. On this costume pink silk chain embroidery made even smaller petals on the blue applique.

Quite a few metal cloth costumes made of wire with diamante, rhinestone or bead embroidery added to the brilliancy of the evening, and cloth beading in favor over silver, and one astounding sheath type being in cloth of brocade with a couple of

Brick Industry Pays $2,000,000 A Year in Wages

What The Brick Industry Means To Kingston, As A Labor Provider, In Purchasing Power and as a Building Standard—Manufacturing Process Described.

We, who live in a locality bounded on the east entirely by a nation wide manufacturing product, namely common brick, a product that sets prominently upon the shores of the Hudson river from New York city to Albany, N. Y., as well as from coast to coast, as a general rule, know little of this thriving industry. How many of you know what the procedure of taking the earth's clay and sending it through its many manipulations required before its completed form known as "common brick" are attained?

The writer has found time and again from citizens from our own locality after escorting them through a brick plant, that they were somewhat surprised as to the daily routine of making a common brick. I shall endeavor to take you all who may not have availed yourself of the opportunity to inspect a brick plant, through a journey by yourself from its beginning to its end, at all times endeavoring to explain to you to the best of my ability its functioning in an intelligent manner.

First, let me advise you there are two particular ways in manufacturing brick, namely those going through an open yard process or a closed or steam dryer yard. The only difference between these two is an open yard brick is dried by nature's sun and warm winds, where on a closed or steam dryer yard, the brick are dried by artificial heat. The first operation required in commencing the manufacture of brick is to get the body from which it is made, known as clay. This is often taken from clay banks as far as a mile from the manufacturing plant, and must be handled, generally by steam or electric shovels, and loaded in heavy steel cars and hauled over a regular 36 inch gauge track. When clay arrives at plant it is placed in receptacles known as clay pits and at this time is mixed with certain proportion of heavy pit sand, coal dust and occasionally a small quantity of lime. The latter depends upon the condition of clay and is generally used in winter months. Now, this mixture is placed through a machine known as pug mill where it is thoroughly ground up in order that a good mixture is obtained, then it is forced into a form known as a brick mold, where six bricks are formed at each revolution of machine where 17 to 22 moulds per minute or equivalent to 102 to 132 bricks per minute are made. These moulds are generally made with the manufacturer's name or brand impressed in the brick. At present there are machines in operation which will give a greater capacity than those mentioned.

We now have got to a point where the common brick is manufactured into its final form, but yet a very careful procedure must be maintained as the brick is now in a very soft condition and it requires considerable skill in handling in order to maintain the original form. When bricks are taken from machines they are placed upon steel pallets and carried out on steel wire rope conveyors to a dry house, where they are placed upon racks of steam pipes upon tier, and when the dry house is filled and closed, artificial heat is forced in to a temperature of 180 degrees Fahrenheit and remain so for eight to ten hours. The brick is then in a condition that will warrant handling in a way which they would not before being treated to this drying process.

Twelve to 15 hours after clay is removed from bank it is ready to be placed in kilns for burning, its last operation before being ready for market. From the dry house brick are conveyed to a place where they are placed in tiers known as kilns. Kilns vary as to size in height, width and length, but are treated exactly the same regardless of these differences. The period required to build these kilns, depends upon their size. When the kilns are built, they are filled with brick, and the heat within the kiln. The walling process is merely placing a layer of brick around the kiln and a fine coating of mortar placed over them to close up openings and hold same together.

The last procedure requires the utmost skill in the manufacture of brick, burning, for if you have a good burn you have good brick, or a bad burn, naturally you have bad brick.

I will explain the method of burning by oil as this procedure seems to be the most efficient and the most used at this period. Where it is used to require five to six days to burn with coal the same amount of brick can be burned with oil in three or four days. The burning with oil is far cleaner and more economical as well.

You now have journeyed from the clay bank to the final manufacturing point of the common brick and all that would be necessary for you to finish the journey would be to spend a two day period watching the loading of barges and another day's journey down our famous Hudson river to the market where they are soon seen conveyed and erected in all kinds of structures from the good economical brick homes to our magnificent office structures. It may be of interest to you to know that the average kiln of brick burned consists of about 1,200,000 brick. This of course varies according to size of kiln, and the average barge when well loaded will transport 400 to 500 thousand brick.

I have attempted to explain to you in a consistent manner the manufacturing routine or that which we may call a labor provider. Now what does the brick industry mean to our locality as a purchasing medium? You undoubtedly will be surprised to learn that it would be a consistent estimate to say that the payroll covering the brick yards in our immediate vicinity amounts to $2,000,000.00 annually. The writer does not intend to estimate what percentage of this vast amount is put in circulation in our own vicinity, but you may rest assured the greater part is going into the various business houses among us. Should the brick industry disappear from our locality, we would all suffer in some way or other to an extent unimaginable.

Now, as I have covered the labor provider and purchasing medium question, I will just pass a few remarks regarding the building standard of "common brick." Personally I may be criticized for advocating the economical way to build your future home, garage or business structure. "Always With Brick" because my own home is of another material, but I like a large majority, believed it considerably more costly to build with brick, not giving the after maintenance expense due consideration. I realize it more year after year, that for economical upkeep, "Always With Brick." There are many ways in which a saving is accumulated with a brick home, garage or other structure. On fire insurance, painting, repairs, and above all its general appearance if you consider disposing of same. I might continue to explain many important points regarding the savings made when you build with brick, but I would advise if you are considering this worthy step in life, whether to build for your own home or for investment purposes, consult an architect and demand you want nothing but the best, and that is "Always With Brick."

Bulletin

No. 1. News Letter Published by The Central Hudson System of Gas & Electric Companies. February 22.

A FOREWORD BY THE EDITOR

The Central Hudson System has a monthly publication called "Central Hudson Bulletin," which is intended as a means of acquainting all who are engaged in this great task of supplying gas and electric service to the people of the Central Hudson Region, with the plans and purposes of the organizations that there may be greater team work and consequently more efficient service rendered.

We realize that this is truly a co-operative undertaking in which employees play but a part. There are more than 60,000 users of gas and electricity who also have a vital interest in what the Central Hudson System is endeavoring to do. Another large class are the holders of the securities of these companies.

Each of these classes is absolutely essential to the undertaking. Without customers the business would cease. Without security holders there would be no company and without employees there would be no service.

We might also say that without adequate gas and electric service this region would soon cease to progress, so that the whole undertaking takes on a region wide aspect.

Therefore this news letter, as a supplement to the Central Hudson Bulletin, is designed not only to inform all who are co-operating in the undertaking known as the Central Hudson System, but is dedicated to the progress of the Region.

The information in this Bulletin is not "confidential." It is the work of the editor who is "a child among its father's notes."

FEWER COMPLAINTS BY HALF IN 1925 COMPARED WITH 1921

The Public Service Commission of New York makes the interesting statement that the number of complaints filed with the commission from all parts of the state during 1925 was only half of the number filed in 1921.

The Commission attributes the decrease in number of complaints to the tendency toward cooperation and the improvement of service furnished by the utility companies.

This is interesting because it confirms our faith in the soundness of the use of intervention and utility management which has been proved in this Bulletin for many years.

THE BEACON DISTRICT OF THE CENTRAL HUDSON SYSTEM

The public utilities of Beacon are now actually a part of the Central Hudson System, the merger having been effected formally on the last day of January of this year.

By this merger a tangle of corporations is done away with and instead there is now the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Company.

The corporations were:

Southern Dutchess Gas & Electric Co., of New York.
Southern Dutchess Gas & Electric Co., of Maine.
Rensselaer Precinct Light & Power Co.
Citizen's Street Railway Co.
Citizen's Railroad Light & Power Co.
Fishkill Electric Railway Co.

All of these, with the exception of the last, have ceased to function. The Fishkill Electric Railway Co. continues as a separate corporate entity and has taken over all of the street railway properties in Beacon.

This is a striking example of the benefits of unified management and grouping of companies which has followed the development of the Central Hudson System. Small independently operated companies are not in a position to render good service as when forces are united and the combined resources of the system are available to each of the units.

THE GATEWAY OF OPPORTUNITY

The drawing in the upper left hand corner entitled "The Gateway of Opportunity" hardly needs explanation, but a word may serve to emphasize its significance.

The drawing is from an oil painting picturing the entrance to the Central Hudson Region at the Highlands with Newburgh Bay in the distance, and with the splendid territory beyond which we believe to be a real land of opportunity.

Through this gateway flow countless greater than any other highway in the world. Through this gateway more people are carried on the water routes than anywhere else in the world. Millions of tons of shipping pass over this "water highway" each year.

We believe this picture deserves a place in all publicity relating to the Central Hudson Region, and therefore include it in the title design of the Bulletin.

INDUSTRY IN THE CENTRAL HUDSON REGION

A vague sense of alarm is felt by many when the subject of industrial development is broached, because it creates a picture of great mills and smoking chimneys to blot the landscape. As the Poughkeepsie Evening Star says:

"Large industries are not always the most desirable in any community. We must consider something to live. We must work. The tendency in these parts is toward small plants, fortunately in this age the smoking mill stack is no longer the symbol of industrial activity. Electricity has taken its place."

On the other hand a great many small industries, diversified in character, giving employment for many rounds are a boon to any community. We must produce something to live. We must work. The tendency in these parts is toward small plants, fortunately in this age the smoking mill stack is no longer the symbol of industrial activity. Electricity has taken its place."

The Star lists five thriving small industries employing from 20 to 40 men, which have been started during the past year, and which give promise of continued prosperity. These industries are numbered among the city's assets, and so they are.

Newburgh is fortunate to have secured during the past year the Muskegon machine plant, which, according to The Newburgh News, is proving to be all that was promised and more. In other parts of the Central Hudson Region we read of new industrial undertakings, small in size, but in the light of the above, most desirable nevertheless.

Newburgh has twenty two lines operating in and out of that city and connecting with 41 different towns in Orange and Ulster Counties.

Temperatures at Leeds have varied from an average of the street heating area recently completed by the Upper Hudson Co., of the Central Hudson System, and have authorized on initial installation of 25 lines. This may be increased to 30 if necessary to properly heat the village.

During 1925 a total of $50,000.00 of new lines were installed in Central Hudson communities.

WURTS STREET BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL BANQUET

The annual banquet of the members of the Wurts Street Baptist Sunday school will be held this evening and at the same time it is expected that there will be a meeting of the officers of the re-organized Christian Endeavor. The banquet is for all members of the Sunday school except the members of the Barren and Fishkill churches which have already held their annual banquets and the primary class. Members of the church are planning for a jubilee supper to be held on March 2. A very attractive menu has been prepared for this evening consisting of roast beef, mashed potatoes, pickles, jelly, ice cream, cake and cross.

Appointed Notary Public.

Catherine Sarah Ross of 3 Barren street, Kingston, has been appointed a notary public in and for the county by Governor Alfred E. Smith.

MISS FRANK BANG AT MEMORIAL SERVICES

Miss M. Helen Frank, accompanied by Miss Marjorie Norwood, sang two much appreciated solos at the memorial services conducted Sunday at Rifton. These services were attended by the members of the American Legion and a very appropriate sermon was delivered by the pastor the Rev. Robert E. Galice. During the services Miss Frank sang "There's A Beautiful Land on High" and "There's A Land Nine Nine Nine Nine."

Four Giant Stars Fail to Sign

McGraw Said to be Faced by a Strike of Four Stars, Including Kelly, Young, Barnes and Scott—Frisch Said to Have Signed.

New York, Feb. 24.—It being alleged that he threw away the telephone directory in favor of a deal table when he drafted some of the 1926 contracts for the New York Giants, John McGraw was said today to be faced with a possible "strike" by a coterie of stars, including George Kelly, Ross Young, Virgil Barnes and Jack Scott.

All of these bright young men are willing, it seems, to start at the top and work upward. Whether there may be even a suggestion of an organized understanding about their failure to sign is a doubtful point. It is probable that they agreed to disagree with Mr. McGraw without consultation among themselves, after the usual manner of holdouts, whose self interest is always adequate.

The writer understands that none of the players involved suffered a reduction in salary. It is not even certain that Kelly and Young can be classed as holdouts. They merely have not signed, which indicates that they contrived to receive the glad tidings of 1926 without enthusiasm. That, by the way, has been the usual case with members of an ex-championship outfit that is about to start a new season as an ordinary ball club.

Barnes is the youth who injured his ankle at a critical point in last season's race and will not be given a salary increase. He told a perfectly good story about the injury, casually mentioning the future expediency of keeping an innocent foot removed from a gully piece of soap in an extremely hard bath tub. He was right but the story was wrong. The Giants were not stopping at a hotel by the day and were doing their bathing, if at all, in Pullman wash rooms.

As matters stand, Barnes may get his salary increase, but if so, he will get it elsewhere. They say the young man may be going on a long journey.

However, one of the real hardships of the outfit has capitulated, according to official advice, which stated today that Frank Frisch had signed his 1926 contract and would leave New York on Friday for the training camp of the Giants. No mention of terms accompanied the announcement but it was understood that Frisch got a liberal increase.

YOUNG SCHAEFER HAS BIG LEAD OVER HOPPE.

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 24.—Jake Schaefer, holder of the world's 13.2 balk line billiard title, today looked as proprietor of another world cue crown, this time, the 18.1 championship.

The final two blocks of the match will be played today.

SLIGHT HOPE HELD OUT FOR VETERAN HURLER

Gettysburg, Pa., Feb. 24.—There was only a slight hope today for the recovery of Eddie Plank, one time star hurler of the Philadelphia Athletics, who was suddenly stricken with a stroke of apoplexy on Sunday.

During the night the veteran hurler lapsed into periods of unconsciousness and it was feared this morning that the end was near.

TILDEN AND RICHARDS WILL REPRESENT U. S.

New York, Feb. 24.—Announcement that William T. Tilden and Vincent Richards will be the sole representatives of America in the international tennis matches was followed today by semi-official reports that Jean Borotra and Rene Lacoste, who beat both Americans last week, will carry France's entire burden. The French have, a third man, Jacques Brugnon, and the Americans two alternates in Francis Hunter and Watson Washburn; but it was thought unlikely that they would see action.

The series will open tomorrow afternoon with Tilden meeting Lacoste, who won the national indoor title on Monday, and Richards playing Borotra. Tilden and Richards will team up for the doubles on Friday with Lacoste and Borotra as their probable opponents while the event will be concluded on Saturday with another pair of singles, Tilden playing Borotra and Richards meeting Lacoste.

FARMERS ADVISED TO RAISE COLTS

Farmers will either have to use more tractors five years from now or else start raising more colts, and the wise farmer is the one who will make the decision now, according to H. C. M. Case, in charge of the farm organization and management department at the University of Illinois. Undoubtedly, the time is fast approaching when there will be a shortage of horses, and the price of work stock is bound to rise in the face of these conditions, he said.

Figures collected by the college from 125 farms in DuPage, Knox, Stephenson, Whiteside and Winnebago counties show that the colts now being raised on these farms will replace only about one-fourth of the horses that may be expected to be lost annually. That this situation is not a local one but that it exists throughout the country is shown by data collected by the federal Department of Agriculture through its 28,000 crop reporters, who for the most part are farmers scattered over the whole country. According to this information, there are only about half as many horses under three years old on farms of the country as will be needed to maintain the present number of horses.

Naturally, a shortage of horses has not been felt in recent years because tractors have been introduced to replace part of the horses. Consequently even if no colts were raised and horses were not shipped in from the outside for a few years, the shortage would not be noticeable. However, this condition cannot exist indefinitely and the time undoubtedly is fast approaching when the shortage will be upon us.

While the present price of horses will scarcely pay the cost of production, this condition is certain to change. Colts should be looked upon as a kind of by-product on corn-belt farms. A colt can be raised while its mother helps care for the peak load of labor in the spring, while it can be fed largely on roughage feeds which are not well utilized on many farms.

Snakeroot Is Poisonous and Will Kill Cattle

White snakeroot is a poisonous plant that is causing some loss to cattle owners in Iowa, according to reports coming in to Iowa State college. A number of calves died in a pasture near Avoca as a result of eating white snakeroot.

Flowers of white snakeroot are white, about one-fourth to one-third of an inch in diameter, and are produced in clusters. The plants grow from two to three feet tall. The leaves are two or three inches long and are ovate in shape. White snakeroot is related in making a tea for medicinal purposes. It is very common in wooded pastures and is found in almost every part of the state. If there is fear of the plant being present, cattle should be kept out of wooded pastures.

Cattle have consumed the plant this year partly because of the dry weather and resultant short pastures, according to Dr. J. H. Fammel, head of the botany department, Iowa State college. Cattle are said to show trembles when poisoned by white snakeroot, and the milk from the cows eating this weed is considered injurious to man.

When Young Lambs Start to Eat Provide a Creep

At about three weeks of age the young lambs will start to eat grain and at this time should be provided with a creep, to which the ewes do not have access, where they may be fed grain consisting of oats, bran and a small proportion of crushed corn and also a good quality of second cutting of clover or alfalfa hay. Any feed remaining in the trough should be fed to the ewes twice daily and the lambs given a fresh supply. Young nursing animals make much more efficient use of their feed than do older animals, hence the importance of rather liberal feeding where it is desirable to market the lambs young.

Live Stock Items

A horse's stomach has a capacity of only 12 pints.

A horse kept shut up away from the sunshine is apt to get nervous.

The United States Department of Agriculture has estimated that about 42,000,000 bushels will be raised during the current year in the corn belt, compared with 42,000,000 last year.

"Square the feed and save the pig." is a good rule to follow the first two weeks.

The importance of using a purebred pair of superior individuality and good showing qualities cannot be too strongly emphasized.

Even with vines and weeds supplemented, the poor rabbit some form of dry roughage. The cheaper kind, such as wet straw, bean straw, corn stover or mixed hay, give very good results in that case.

Gold and Silver

The value of gold compared with silver is said to have been estimated in the time of the Greek historian Herodotus, 480 B. C., about 20 to 1. At the time of the Greek philosopher, Plato, 428 B. C., it was 12 to 1; today it is about 34 to 1.

Freak Formation of Trees Not Uncommon
If anyone doubts that Nature has a sense of humor, he had better turn his attention to trees, and see what queer things she invents at times. Evidently the long neck of the giraffe struck her as a joke that would bear repeating, for she has copied it almost to perfection in Key West, Fla. There, in what is known as Maloney's garden, is to be seen the giraffe tree, a date palm grafted onto a fig tree.
